

It is said on pretty good authority that of the 230 newspapers in Dakota, 245 are republicans.

Mr. Beecher thinks Robert Lincoln is a fool to think of taking the vice presidency, when he can wait four years and get the presidency.

Mr. Tilden objects going to (university), but it is hoped his health will be good enough to enable him to attend the funeral of the democratic party next fall.

Certain newspapers which want to be considered unprejudiced, are caricaturing the dead democrat—Charles Reade—by publishing what they brazenly call a portrait of him.

The democrats wish their elephant was white. They think it would take better in the campaign. Probably Mr. Forepaugh can give the democratic party a hint as to how the elephant can be made white.

Most of the states are doing what Wisconsin should do—electing their delegates to the national republican convention by congressional district conventions. There is common sense in that system of choosing delegates to the national convention, the republican state central committee to the contrary notwithstanding.

If the democrats want to accommodate the republicans in making a nomination for the presidency, they will take up Mr. Tilden. If they desire to do the next best thing for the country in the event that the republicans should be defeated, they should nominate Mr. Randall. He is not so easy and slippery as Samuel, and besides that he is a protectionist.

A dispatch from Washington says that so far there have been chosen 196 delegates to the republican convention, or about one-quarter of the entire number. Of these the president's friends claim 106, Mr. Blaine's friends claim 50 and Logan claims 28. There are three contesting delegations from the Second Illinois, the Nineteenth New York, and the Twenty-second Pennsylvania districts, which are not included in the total of 196.

President Eliot, of Harvard college, has made a public expression of his opinion of base ball, which is very tersely put as follows: "I think it is a wretched game. There are only nine men who can play the game, and there are 950 men in the college, and out of the nine there are only two desirable positions, I understand—pitcher and catcher—so there is but little chance for a youth to gratify his ambition. I call it one of the worst games, although I know it's called the American national game."

The B. & O. is out with another decided novelty, this time in the shape of a book of travel, which is as unique as it is artistic. It is an entirely new departure in book making, the different pages disclosing a most extended variety of tints, while the margin, usually blank, is in this instance completely taken up with studies in blending colors. The ingenuity of clever artists has been demonstrated in capital drawn caricatures—not broad, but laughably effective—of almost every imaginable phase of life, and, on the whole, it may truly be said to be totally unlike any other publication ever issued. It is entitled "On Picturesque B. & O.," and General Passenger Agent Lord, at Baltimore, will, with his accustomed kindness forward by mail upon request.

The condition of Superintendent Atkins, of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, is still somewhat uncertain. He has been connected with what is now the St. Paul company for more than twenty-five years. He began to work for the company in a very humble way and worked his way up to the responsible and important position of superintendent of the company. Lately he has been dealing in stocks, especially in wheat, and lost heavily. All his speculations worked against him until he found himself without a dollar, and was compelled to transfer his $40,000 home in Milwaukee to secure his creditors. It is said that these heavy losses created such a mental strain that his break down was inevitable. The misfortune of Mr. Atkins is the misfortune of hundreds of others who have no business to dabble in stocks. Speculation rightly belongs to those who can afford to lose. A few make a little by these speculations, but the many are out of pocket. When a man in Mr. Atkins' position who can command a salary of from $10,000 to $15,000 a year, he should curb his ambition to engage in the very uncertain business of grain gambling. It doesn't pay in the long run, and the experience Mr. Atkins has recently had is the experience of many hundreds of others. He is a brave, manly and sensible man, who can, while confronted with the temptation to speculate and win thousands, let well enough alone.

P. S.—Since the above was written, the news comes that Mr. Atkins died at La Crosse Sunday. His body has been taken to Milwaukee where the funeral will take place on Wednesday. He was 50 years old, and leaves a wife and one daughter.

During the sixteenth century it is estimated that 120,000,000 people perished by plagues, famines and floods, and during that century three planets were in perihelion. It all these millions perished on account of these planets being in perihelion, what will be the result of the four planets that are now approaching perihelion? The theory is that the perihelion so affects the sun, and in turn the sun affects the earth, as to produce all the calamities that carried away the millions in the sixteenth century. There are many prone to believe this theory, and stand in dread of the coming year or two will bring forth. Be careless, and by accidents which human foresight cannot prevent, by sickness that can not be healed, by storm and by flood that can not be stayed, and in scores of mysterious ways, death and suffering will visit the people of all lands, whether Saturn, Neptune, Uranus and Jupiter are in perihelion or not. Weak minds are apt to believe in the theory that is the most gloomy, and to credit predictions that make the greatest slaughter of human life. The most shocking calamities to far during 1834, have been brought about by carelessness, and by the maladministration of justice. Those who are prone to believe that plagues and famines and storms and accidents will sweep away their millions this year, and that the world will be turned upside down, should remember the words of Eternal Wisdom: "While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and winter, and day and night shall not cease."

OHIO ASTOUNDED,

That Is the Portion of the Population Called Society.

Sad Ending of a Brilliant Marriage—Governor Foster's Youngest Daughter Separates from Her Husband.

CLEVELAND, April 13.—Ohio society circles are in a flutter over a separation and probable divorce in high life. The parties directly interested are Col. Fred Mussey and his wife, who is the youngest daughter of ex-Governor Charles Foster. Mussey and his wife have been living apart for some weeks, Mrs. Mussey being at the home of her father at Fostoria, and Mr. Mussey making his headquarters at Columbus. The public announcement of the separation was made Sunday for the first time. Governor Foster went to Columbus in January, 1883, with Mrs. Foster and their two daughters, Misses Jessie and Annie. There were several aspirants for the position of private secretary, which Mussey succeeded in getting. The governor had no idea of Mussey's position, and was surprised during the campaign, in which Mr. Mussey was quite active as a newspaper correspondent. Mr. Mussey after a time was the affection of the younger daughter, Miss Annie, a lady of the most generous impulses, and of the truest traits of womanhood. The great difference in their ages is said to have been raised as an objection to the marriage, but Miss Annie, who was a mere girl as compared to the man of the world who had won her, was completely captivated, and would not listen to the advice of others, not even her own parents, who earnestly opposed the match.

If there was much of romance in the courtship to her it was based on candor and devotion. She was sincere and honest. He was very attentive before the marriage, so much so that the fact was frequently commented on at Columbus and elsewhere, but always in an honorable way and with good wishes that the affection evinced might never be lessened by the trials of life. The courtship was done before the marriage. The wedding was one of the most brilliant ones ever known at the capital. The wedding day is still remembered. Gen. Sam F. Hunt was the groom's best man. All remember how the truly gentle Annie leaned upon the arm of her father as the bridal party entered the church, and the governor gave away his daughter. There were congratulatory letters by students, members of congress and others. One of the finest presents came from Mrs. Garfield, with a good letter to Miss Annie, wishing her much joy. They took to Europe, but there was a wedding and an aching heart before they boarded the vessel. The very first night the bride was left alone in her room at the Fifth Avenue hotel in New York till 3 o'clock in the morning, while the groom was out with old friends having a good time. Neither side is known to have told their story, and both seemed to be cured for some time what could not be cured in order to avoid publication.

It was common talk in Columbus after their return from Europe that the couple did not seem to be so much attached as before the marriage. Mr. Mussey seldom spent the evening at home. He was generally to be found up the street at the hotels or restaurants, and Mrs. Mussey went to parties with her sister. This because the town talk among society people at Columbus. Mrs. Mussey, finding that she could no longer live happily with her husband, left him forever, and sought the seclusion of her father's home at Fostoria. Mussey has been all his life an adventurer. He has been accustomed to disregard the feelings of men by criticism, regardless of consequences, and this sometimes may lead to a tendency to look on all women kind with more or less disrespect. Neither party is likely ever to tell the past, and about all that will be known is that they were married, and, like so many of the brilliant spirits of the west, the sequel was a separation. Mrs. Mussey was never mistreated, according to what is generally known by that term, but they were not adapted by nature to wed, and found it out after marriage rather than before it. A divorce is possible, but not probable.

The Dynamiters.

LONDON, April 14.—The Observer says: "If American law cannot reach the dynamiters it ought to be altered. A demand to this effect might fairly be addressed to the government of Washington, the main contention being for the Alabama claims, which have been the subject of every government to have such a judicial law as will prevent injury to the citizens of a friendly state."

EXCLUSIVE STATESMEN.

House Employes Angry Because They Can Not Eat with Members.

WASHINGTON CITY, April 14.—The recent order of the house of representatives setting apart a certain space in the restaurant for the exclusive use of members has raised an unpleasant breeze among the army of congressional employes as well as others. Hereafter every body was good enough to go in and occupy any seat that happened to be vacant, but the present house, imitating the senate in the line of aristocratic exclusiveness, concluded to put up partitions, thus walling off the common herd while they were absorbing food and drink. The majority of the employes and committee clerks are local politicians who were active in securing the election of their favorite congressman, and hold their present positions as rewards for valuable campaign services. They are in a state of deep disgust, and an informal meeting was held to give vent to their feelings. They openly characterized as contemptible the conduct of any member of congress who thought himself "too good" to associate with the employes. They resolved that if representatives persisted in their course they would get up a circular for distribution in congressional districts setting forth that the men in congress have set up a degrading distinction between themselves and those who work for a living. Many congressmen are seriously exasperated over the matter, and have been told to disclaim all responsibility. The discontent has become so loud in the last days of deep disgust, and an informal meeting was held to give vent to their feelings. They openly characterized as contemptible the conduct of any member of congress who thought himself "too good" to associate with the employes. They resolved that if representatives persisted in their course they would get up a circular for distribution in congressional districts setting forth that the men in congress have set up a degrading distinction between themselves and those who work for a living. Many congressmen are seriously exasperated over the matter, and have been told to disclaim all responsibility.

The Tariff Bill's Chances.

WASHINGTON CITY, April 14.—Mr. Hancock, who holds the position of appropriation bill clerk in the house, is anxious to get out of the way before the tariff fight commences. The same is true as regards the public building combination. They desire to get as many bills disposed of as possible before that time, fearing a reaction and a possible break in their ranks. The railroad grant combination are anxious to push through the forfeiture bills, notably the Oregon Central, which stands well to the front as unfinished business. Then there are several other important measures, all being vigorously pushed.

Mr. Morrison has stated on the floor in debate and repeatedly in conversation, that he will call up the tariff bill on Tuesday. Being a revenue bill it must first be considered in committee of the whole, and a motion to go into committee will be resisted by the opposition. Were there no side issue, Mr. Morrison would be likely to succeed in this motion by a small majority, but the friends of the tariff measure, fearing a possible break in their ranks, have decided to postpone the bill to the latter part of the week, when a record vote will be insured upon in each case.

Some such influences may prevent the consideration of the tariff bill for the present, but it is understood to be Mr. Morrison's intention to make his motion from day to day until he succeeds. He has one advantage over the Randall bill, in the matter of pairs, as the latter if about must pair with Republicans, thus weakening the opposition two votes by every pair that is made. This is understood by the Republicans, who will make no pairs that will cause the result. Randall men will, therefore, have to remain at the desks, while the tariff men will leave at will. The list of pairs is now unusually large, but with two or three exceptions in a way not to affect the vote on the tariff. These exceptions will all expire by Tuesday. If Mr. Morrison wins, the tariff is likely to consume the time for the week, save Friday, which is private bill day.

The Naval Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON CITY, April 14.—The great bone of contention on the naval appropriation bill in the senate is the amendment, tacking on to the appropriation bill the new steel cruiser bill, which has already passed the house as a separate measure. Messrs. Beck, McPherson, Vest, and other leading Democrats, take the ground that the amendment is new legislation, and out of place in an appropriation bill. There was a stirring debate on this point, but President John Edmunds ruled, and maintained his position with great firmness, that it is not new legislation; that it simply relates to the execution of matters pertaining to the naval establishment, and amend, and amend in order. Mr. Hale, who has charge of the bill, states that the amendment is a courteous method of impressing the house of the decided views of the senate in regard to the building of new ships. Mr. McPherson, on the other hand, holds that the amendment is an act of great discourtesy to the house, and will be treated as such.

Saturday in the House.

WASHINGTON CITY, April 14.—In the house of representatives, on Saturday, favorable reports were made on bills to permit fruit-growers to manufacture brandy, and on the payment of tax, granting letter-carriers a month's leave of absence each year, and for the acceptance of the Illinois & Michigan canal. Eulogies on the late Representative Herndon of Alabama, were delivered by union members.

New Car Heater.

CHICAGO, April 14.—The W. H. Hart heater, a new stove for railway use, was tested on the Western Indiana Saturday. The heater was put up in a freight car, and demonstrated its heating capacity perfectly. The car was then run at the rate of forty miles an hour and detailed, turning over three or four times. When examined after its tumble the heater was found intact, not a spark of fire having escaped. The test was looked upon by those present as entirely successful, and the heater was enthusiastically congratulated. The heater is three feet in height and twenty-two inches in diameter, is constructed of heavy wrought-iron and cast iron, impossible to break in collision, and if overturned or knocked down in any shape cannot injure the car, inasmuch as the heater closes itself automatically when it turns over, preventing even access to escape from it.

The Monmouth, Ill., Bank.

MONMOUTH, Ill., April 14.—A stockholder in the First National bank made the following statement: "The bank will certainly resume as soon as its affairs are properly arranged. Of course the old directors will not desire to be retained, and it would not be policy to retain them under the circumstances and with the sentiment of the community as it is. Under the new management the bank can start with assured success, backed by the confidence of the people."

Fast Egg and Poultry Trains.

CHICAGO, April 14.—At a meeting of the members of the produce exchange, O. E. Whitehead, R. Hamilton, and P. H. Bolton, were appointed a committee to arrange with the different railroads carrying here for a ventilated car two or three times a week to carry poultry and eggs on fast freight trains at a reasonable rate, including the return of empty cases and packages.

The Head and Eye.

Since last October I have suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head—often in the night having to get up and inhale salt and water vapor. My eyes could not see. I have used no kind of remedies, also employed a doctor, who said it was impure blood—but I got no help. I used Ely's Cream Balm on the recommendation of a friend. I was troubled but a few days was cured. My nose now, and also my eye, is well. It is wonderful how quick it healed me. Mrs. C. G. Brown, S. Johnson, Hartford, Conn.

SENSATIONS IN CHURCH.

Effects of Pulpit Eloquence in New York.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The Easter services at the Brooklyn tabernacle were attended by the largest audience that ever thronged the immense edifice. Hundreds were turned away. The pastor, Dr. Tappan, preached a highly wrought sermon on the resurrection. He wrought himself into a pitch of enthusiasm and his words produced much excitement. Well-dressed ladies went into hysterics and wept home into one of the corridors, where restoratives were applied. "He must stop," she cried; "somebody tell him to stop. He is killing people. If Mr. Tappan continues he will kill me." It was not till after the sermon that the suffering recovered to be heard of again. Many were obliged to leave before the conclusion of the sermon.

The Madison Avenue Congregational church was crowded. Every seat was occupied, and people stood in the aisles and against the walls. It was the largest congregation that Dr. Newman has preached to in some time. He preached an Easter sermon on "Christ Is Risen." In detail he told the story of Christ's death and resurrection. He had scarcely concluded when a woman with a wild look in her eyes rose in the church and cried: "First! First! Water! Water! Give us water to extinguish the fire. Glory to God! For a moment there was confusion, and ladies hurried toward the front and led her from the church. Let us sing, 'Nearer, My God, to Thee,' said Dr. Newman. The woman who created the disturbance is said to be insane through religious excitement.

CAGING A BRUTE.
Horrible Racial of a Girl at Scranton, Pa.
Chained to the Floor by Her Betrayer and Shamefully Abused
The Second Arrested and Jailed.
Scranton, Pa., April 14.—A girl named Sadie McClanahan escaped Saturday afternoon from a back room on Spruce street, in the center of the city, where she had been chained to the floor like a wild beast for nearly three weeks by a quick calling husband, V. S. Madden, and took refuge in the Squeamish house. Mrs. Madden, the wife of the hotel proprietor, thought the girl was mad, but the pitiful earnestness of her pleading led her not to doubt her sanity, and she was released by the appearance of the girl. Madden seized the girl by the arms to drag her away, but the poor creature clung to Mrs. Carpenter, and cried: "For God's sake don't let him take me away, as he will kill me." Mrs. Carpenter bravely defended the fugitive against the furious crowd, and he was compelled to go without her. Madden was arrested shortly after in his office, where the chains and locks with which he had bound the girl to the floor were also found. At the hearing before Mayor Beahm, Sadie told a horrible story of human heartlessness. She said she had known Madden nearly two years. He betrayed her, and said as soon as he got divorced from his wife, who is now in Alabama, he would marry her. Last January, while Sadie was living with her sister at Lewistown, Madden entreated her to come to Scranton, saying he would take care of her. She returned at first, but finally came to her senses, and a divorce, she wanted to go back to Lewistown, but this made him mad. He threw her down in his back room, put chains on her ankles, and fastened one to a bed, the other to a staple in the floor. There she has starved and suffered terrible agony and cruelty for nearly three weeks. Once when she raised an outcry he threw her down, jumped on her breast and choked her. He nailed down the windows and fastened the doors when she was out. Sometimes he returned drunk and ate and abused her. Her food was an occasional sandwich or piece of meat which he brought in his pocket. This afternoon when he took the chains from her ankles and let her go to a closet she made a dash for liberty and got away.
Madden denied the girl's statement, but finally admitted having chained her to the floor. In default of $5,000 bail he was sent to the county jail. The feeling against him is intense.
Sadie McClanahan is about 30 years old, and, although half starved, shows traces of great beauty. Madden came to this city a year ago with a quick called Gibson, who is also in jail.
THE POCAHONTAS MINE.
Fifty-four Bodies Recovered—A Scene Laid to Rest.
POCAHONTAS, Va., April 14.—Thirteen bodies were recovered at the mine Saturday. Six of them were recognized and claimed, and turned over to friends. Like those recovered previously, most of these bodies were horribly mutilated. One coffin contained only the bare backbone of one of the victims, the head, arms, right leg, lower part of left leg, breast, and abdomen having been completely blown away. The body of Henry O'Neil, with the head, arms and legs blown away, was recognized from his being a hunchback. O'Neil, B. Moore there remained only a leg and part of the right side above the thigh. He was recognized by his waist-strap. His father took charge of the remains. Another body, a colored man, was identified by his belt and shoes. Milton Beath and James Wright, both colored, were identified, the former by his knife and pocketbook, the other by his shoes. M. L. Hanagan had his head and leg blown away. The scenes presented when the coffins are opened are horrible beyond description. The bodies affected by the action of the water are almost in a putrid mass, and when the limbs are moved about to search for some means of identification, they are found to be black and blue, and the bodies are blackened and begrimed with coal and smoke, the teeth clenched in the throes of death, and the features contorted.
Fifty-five bodies have been brought out up to this time, twenty-six being recovered Sunday. Most of these were badly mutilated as those already described. At 5 o'clock in the morning twenty-eight bodies were found in the fan entry. The explanation of their being all together, as furnished by a miner who escaped, is that, on the night of the explosion, the air in the mines became so foul that the men at work were oppressed by it and stepped work in order to go out and get some fresh air. When they reached the above entry the air current, which was blowing strong, and they prepared to go down and rest awhile and then go back to work. He, with a few others, went out and gained the outside in safety; the others lying altogether were killed by the explosion a few minutes afterward.
This vein of coal, which is higher than the surrounding coal fields, has evidently been thrown up by some upheaval, and the opinion of Capt. J. A. Welch, a skilful prospector and mine owner, is that when this took place a large cavity was formed, which having become full of gas and being blasted into, produced the terrific explosion which caused such destruction. If this be the case, he says, there will be no more coal in the mine as the gas most probably found full vent. Of the twenty-six bodies recovered Sunday fifteen were identified as follows: Earl Goodman, G. F. Mills, M. Jewell, B. Andrews, Frank Solko, Peter Roggeford, W. C. Cumberland, Andrew Futo, (who) and John. The Reed Burrows, David Bacon, Ben Bentley, James Campbell, Creed Burke, and J. Wyatt, (colored).

Our attention has been lately drawn, by personal experience, to Dr. Bigelow's Positive Cure for coughs, colds and consumption, and all throat and lung diseases. It is a scientific composition of the most potent ingredients of the researches of an eminent physician and two practical chemists of laboratory experience of fifty years. THE TALK OF THE TIME.
Ex-Gov. Hendricks Home Again—He Talks a Little Politics.
Latest from the Alleged Grant Movement—The New York Delegation—Geo. Wm. Curtis' Views—Other Gossip.
New York, April 14.—In sound health and high spirits ex-Governor Thomas A. Hendricks arrived in this city on the Hamburg steamship, after a four months' sojourn in Europe.
"You have been represented, Mr. Hendricks, as saying that you would on no account be a candidate before the Democratic national convention, as also expressing the opinion that no Indiana man could be safely made a nominee of that body."
"Yes, and I am glad to have an opportunity of making a correction on one of those points. Let me say, in the first place, I am not in any way a candidate for a nomination by the national convention, but I have never expressed the opinion you allude to. I have learned that a writer from Washington has said that in a letter to a friend I expressed the view that with the Democratic party in Indiana divided between two factions it would be unadvisable to take a presidential candidate from that state. I desire to say that I neither wrote nor said any such thing. When I left home the Democracy of Indiana was not divided."
"But supposing you were made a nominee by the Democrats at Chicago, supposing that the old ticket—Mr. Tilden and yourself—were re-nominated, would you decline to accept the nomination?"
"I must say you excuse me from answering this question now. I had rather wait until I get home to Indiana, among my own people, before I say anything on that topic."
In reference to the tariff, Mr. Hendricks said that it was a disagreeable subject to talk of, especially if one was not posted down to date, which he, owing to his absence, was not. "I do not feel competent to pass judgment on the pending bill. I am sorry to find it has become a demerit of a disinterested member of the house of representatives. It is possible that it may appear in the presidential election. Time will probably settle that. I think, however, that most every reflecting person has come to the conclusion that there ought to be no reform, especially as existing laws bring into the treasury many millions of dollars more than an honest administration of public affairs requires. The people may consider the obligation of the Democratic party as discharged if when clothed with sufficient power, it shall introduce and consummate all needed reforms, but they will hardly hold the party responsible merely because it controls one branch of congress. He believed that the national convention would be unanimous, and that Democratic success would result in legislation just to the great interests of the country.
New York Adverses.
ALBANY, N. Y., April 14.—The results of the first week's struggle for the election of delegates to the Republican state and national conventions leave no doubt that the state convention will be in the control of those opposed to President Arthur's re-nomination, and that Senator Warner Miller will head New York's representation at delegate at large. The convention consists of 49 delegates. Of these 23 have already been elected. Mr. Secretary of State Blaine has a clear lead, of ninety delegates favoring his nomination. President Arthur follows next with not to exceed fifty-seven delegates. Of the remainder twenty are pronounced in favor of Senator Edmunds, four and twenty-four are pronounced against Gen. Arthur, but divided in uncertain proportions between Blaine, Edmunds, Lincoln and Hawley. Five delegates are not committed. Forty delegates have been elected in New York, and the preference is not committed to exactly ascertained. A majority is claimed by both the friends and opponents of President Arthur. In the estimate given here one-half is allotted to Arthur of the congressional district delegates to Chicago already elected. Six are for Arthur, six for Blaine, and two for Edmunds.
George William Curtis, in an interview says the National Republican convention "will declare for three things, I think: First, the encouragement of domestic industry; second, the continuation of civil service reform on the basis on which they have already begun; third, the extension of all possible protection to the colored voters of the south."
"And the Democratic platform?"
"They will probably content themselves with an invasion of the tariff issues and make the most capital they can out of the Republican shortcomings, of which there have been a good many."
With reference to President Arthur, Mr. Curtis said his administration had been in general acceptable to all Republicans and that the Independents were satisfied with his course, but that he was handicapped by his previous political association with the circumstances of his succession to the presidency, and could not carry New York by the old methods. Blaine would put the Republicans on the defensive, which was undesirable; Lincoln's name coupled with Blaine would not make the ticket safe. Logan was strong with the soldiers, but not elsewhere. Edmunds was the most available candidate, and Grant, he thought, was not in the race. With reference to the Democrats, he thought that they were entirely out of the running. Cleveland was the best man, and he and Payne would be a strong ticket; reversed the ticket would not be so strong.
The Alleged Grant Movement.
WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Washington correspondent of The Boston Herald telegraphs his paper: An organized movement is on foot looking to the nomination of Grant and Lincoln at Chicago. A perfect understanding exists, it is understood, between Logan and Grant. The latter is fighting as much for prestige as for the presidency. He wants to succeed himself in the senate. Lincoln will be his principal competitor. It would be a good thing for him at once to break Blaine and nominate Grant, and remove Lincoln from his path.
A leader of Ohio Republicans in the house, who did not wish to be quoted by name, said: "I believe Grant is stronger to-day with the people of this country than ever before. If he should be brought out as a dark horse at Chicago, I should not be surprised to see him sweep everything before him. If he should be nominated he will be elected, too. I don't believe any power on earth could prevent it. Now, I am not saying that he is my first choice, for I am sure that I believe he will be nominated, for it doesn't look that way now; but I am telling you what I think about the result if there should be a dead-lock between the now prominent candidates, and Grant's name be used, as at the right moment. Just give him that in your hat."
Just before he left the Arlington on his departure for New York, Gen. Grant was asked if there was any possibility that his name would go before the Chicago convention. "None whatever," answered the general. "I regard my candidacy as having been permanently settled four years ago. Since that time I have never contemplated any office so far as my occupancy of it was concerned. No man can refuse to serve his country, but I cannot imagine any emergency which would again call me into public life. I am for Gen. Logan, and no one else. I see no good reason why he could not be nominated. It is not the man who goes into the convention with the most votes who gets the nomination."

An Editor's Tribute.
Theodore P. Kantor, Editor of Ft. Wayne Ind. "Gazette," writes: "For the past five years have always used Dr. King's New Discovery, for coughs of most severe character, as well as for those of a milder type. It never fails to effect a speedy cure. My friends to whom I have recommended it speak of it in same high terms. Having been cured by it of every cough I have had for years, I consider it the only reliable and sure cure for coughs, colds, etc." Call at F. Stever & Co's, drug store and get a Free trial bottle. We Represent THIRTY SOUND COMPANIES, being the largest agency in the Northwest. Among our companies are the Oldest, the Strongest in America, England, or in the World. They are truly TIME TRIED AND FIRE TESTED. Many of these Companies have been through all the terrible conflagrations of the last FIFTY OR ONE HUNDRED YEARS—the great fires of London, of New York, of Portland, of St. Louis, of St. Johns, of Boston and Chicago, and have always paid one hundred cents on the dollar and are now as SOLID AS THE ROCKS, after paying millions upon millions to their patrons. Between three and four hundred Insurance Companies in this country have gone to the wall—either failed outright or re-insured their risks and retired from the field since 1870, and more or the weaklings will go year by year. The one hundred millions of dollars annually destroyed by fire in this country is sure to bankrupt them. Our rates are as low as other responsible companies. All honest losses fairly and promptly adjusted and paid. The best is the cheapest.

—The money order department of the Janesville postoffice transacted $5,365.43 worth of business during the past two weeks; $2,341.45 being paid out, and $3,023.98 being taken in.

—The burning of the Baptist church in Beloit on Saturday night, was plainly seen in this city, many thinking it was the burning of some farm house or barn down on the prairie.

—The tobacco association did not transact any business on Saturday afternoon. Vice President W. H. Tripp occupied the chair, but there being so small an attendance the meeting adjourned.

—Frank Welch fell on Saturday evening, while at play with some boys in the fourth ward, and broke his collar bone. He was attended by Dr. Q. O. Sutherland, and is now doing well.

—Remember the grand masquerade to be given by the Janesville Guards in their armory to-morrow evening. Spectators will be admitted for 25 cents each. It will be the masquerade of the season.

—An interesting entertainment was given by the Sunday school children of the First M. E. church, last evening, in place of the regular Sunday evening service in that church. The attendance was good, and the concert very interesting.

C. band, in the Rifles' armory. Both of these dances are open to the public, and will be liberally patronized.

—Dr. H. S. Humphrey lost a valuable Jersey cow this morning. It seems that his son had a wire stretched from a tree in the yard, to the barn. During the thunder storm this morning, lightning struck this tree, and followed the wire to the barn in which the cow was kept. Leaving the wire in the barn, the lightning struck the cow, killing her instantly. The cow was valued at two hundred dollars.

—On Saturday evening Mr. Patrick Dohany, went to the rear of William Humming's saloon, on West Milwaukee street, for the purpose of getting a shovel he had left, and while looking in the dark for the shovel, he stepped into a hole, which had been left uncovered, and fell, breaking his left leg above the knee; surgical assistance was immediately called, the wound dressed and the injured man taken to his home on Lincoln street, fourth ward.

—Mr. J. H. Wheeler, of Omaha, arrived in this city this morning, and now proposes to make Janesville his permanent home, and will engage in the real estate business, having formed a partnership with Mr. Frank L. Stevens. These parties have been intimate friends from boyhood, and seem to be perfectly at home in each other's company. They will no doubt receive the lion's share of the real estate business in this section, as they know how to push the business to success.

—An adjourned meeting of the Board of Education was held on Saturday evening, at which all the commissioners were present except President Rager. The business of the meeting was that of closing up the unfinished work of the board on the resignation of Miss Julia C. Dutton, teacher in the first intermediate department of the second ward, was deferred until the meeting of the new board. The business having all been closed up the board adjourned sine die.

—Rumor has it that a loud game of "poker" was played in this city a few evenings since, between a Janesville man and a stranger. It is said that when the "pot" had reached four thousand dollars, the stranger became a little reckless and "raised" the Janesville man two hundred; the Janesville man examined his hand, and concluded to "call." The stranger showed three jacks and a pair of nines when the Janesville man turned over three aces and a pair of eights, and raked in the four thousand four hundred dollars.

—"Oh! what a funny egg. What makes all them wrinkles on it?" The question was asked by a little girl in the first ward as she stood in a neighbor's back-house admiring a new laid egg of large dimensions and covered with wrinkles. The neighbor explained that wrinkles and old age always went together, and that he thought that the old egg producer had probably passed her four score years judging by the number of wrinkles. A wonderful impression was made on the mind of the little girl, and she entertained the family at dinner, by telling about the funny egg and the eighty year old hen. When questioned about it and told that there must be some mistake, she insisted on being right, the man told her that the hen or the rooster was eighty and she believed it was the hen. A flock of juvenile hens, along in the eighties would be a good argument in favor of free trade.

OBITUARY.

LAST FISH.

Again we are called upon to record the death of another one of Janesville's old and respected citizens. Mr. Eli Fish died at his home on Chatham street, in the first ward, at two o'clock on Sunday morning, in the sixty-seventh year of his age. The deceased, for a number of years past, was engaged in the occupation of a house mover; he enjoyed a large acquaintance in the city, all of whom were his steadfast friends; he was also an honored member of Janesville Lodge No. 55, F. and A. M. The deceased leaves a wife and seven children, Edwin, Malachi, Charles, Eugene, Phoebe, Ida and Clara, all of whom were with him in his last moments, and who have the sympathy of all in their sad affliction.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon, at All Souls' church, at 2:30 o'clock, under the direction of the Masonic order, Rev. J. L. Jones, of Chicago, officiating.

Masonic Notice.

Cure of Rheumatism.

Oceanus postoffice, Rockway Beach, N. Y., March 1, 1883: I have been a great sufferer from Rheumatism. Some six weeks ago I had a bad attack and was laid up for a month, nothing appeared to me of any good. I got a box of Brander's Pills at last, and took three and four every night for a week. I got better every day, and in a week I was well. On this account we have no doctor, and our main reliance is on Brander's Pills and Alcock's Porous Plasters.

Death of Albert W. Alden.

The sad news was telegraphed to this city last evening that Mr. A. W. Alden, eldest son of Mr. J. M. and Mrs. C. W. Alden, had been run over by the cars in Chicago, and killed. This morning, Mr. P. S. Fenton, a brother-in-law of the deceased, went to Chicago for the purpose of bringing the remains to this city for interment, and rendering such assistance to the afflicted family as lay in his power. The Inter Ocean of to-day, has this item, relating to Mr. Alden's death: Shortly after 7 o'clock last evening a switchman named Albert Alden, employed by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, was run over by No. 825 West Indian street, westward, to his duties on the track west of Western avenue, and had just turned a switch to allow a train to pass, when he was struck by switch engine No. 559, which was going east. The wheels passed over his neck, completely severing the head from the body. The remains were taken to Rogers' undertaking establishment on West Madison street. The deceased was about 35 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children.

The deceased went to Chicago about five years ago, and obtained the situation as stated by the Inter Ocean. He was in the forty-seventh year of his age, and previous to his going to Chicago, had resided in this city from his early boyhood, and was at one time employed in the Gazette office, at the time his uncle, Hon. Levi Alden, was the proprietor.

The news of his sad death comes with a crushing force to his aged parents in this city, whose home has many times been thrown into deep mourning by the death of family offerings.

It is not known when the remains will reach this city, but perhaps not before to-morrow afternoon.

UNFORTUNATE BELOIT.

The Baptist Church of that City in Ashes. Loss $15,000. Insurance $5,000.

At about eleven o'clock Saturday night the fire department of Beloit was called out and were soon at work trying to save an old barn, the property of Mr. J. H. Allen on School street. The flames spread rapidly, however, and in half an hour the barn with most of its contents was destroyed. The Baptist church, near by, was soon discovered to be ablaze at the rear end of the roof, and the rapidly spreading flames made it apparent that the old land mark was doomed. At the old land mark in the steeple, rang out the midnight hour, with the tongues of fire leaping up toward it, the fact that it had tolled its last note, was fully realized. By one o'clock, all that was left of the beautiful church, with its Easter decorations, was a smouldering pile of stone and brick. The pews and cushions and most of the inside furnishings were saved. The church was built in 1844, and rebuilt in 1874. It was valued at $15,000. If the amount of insurance had been doubled, as it should have been, the financial loss to the society would have been comparatively light.

The barn of Mr. Allen took fire from a smouldering bon fire near by. His loss, aside from the building, includes two horses and two cows, besides feed and so on.

Living on one side of the church, was a family where the lady was dangerously sick. Her removal to safe quarters while the fire was raging, makes her recovery more extremely doubtful. On the opposite side of the church, the family of Mr. J. P. Hall were obliged to move out hurriedly. Mr. Hall has been an invalid and almost helpless for six months, with sciatica. He was moved on a cot and suffered much from pain and excitement.

Beloit is indeed unfortunate, and the Gazette is endorsed by the public sentiment of Janesville, when it expresses sympathy.

Frosted Tobacco.

The Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter, in its review of the tobacco market, publishes the following in relation to frosted tobacco: "Buyers are out again canvassing the country in all directions, this time in search for frosted goods. The riding is confined to a few firms, but some lively work has been done during the week thus far and a good many hundreds of cases of frosted tobacco have been contracted for. Prices range all the way from 1 to 8 and 10 cents according to quality and averaging not far from 5 cents. There are buyers in our market now who are ready to take almost unlimited quantities of those figures which is certainly a good thing for the growers, as it gives them an opportunity to clean up the remnants of their stock before spring's work begins."

The Easter Festival.

Easter Sunday was not observed in Janesville in as elaborate a manner as formerly, and did not meet the expectations of those who look upon the day as a joyous festival. Christ church (Episcopal) was handsomely decorated, and in addition to this the song service, under the direction of Dr. M. A. Newman, was very elaborate, and exceedingly well rendered.

At St. Patrick's church, there were many handsome floral decorations. The music was especially good, being given by a quartet consisting of Miss Hattie Dearborn, Mrs. C. E. Church, Mr. J. M. Knapp and Mr. O. E. Church, with Prof. J. M. Smith as violin accompanist. During the service Miss Dearborn sang "Ave Maria" in a manner that did the young lady great credit.

In the afternoon the Knights Templars held an Easter service at Trinity church, at which the Rev. C. M. Pullen officiated. The service was very similar to that of the Episcopal church. The music was sung by a quartet composed of Miss Hattie Dearborn, Mrs. C. E. Church, William Blodan, and E. M. Church. A delegation of knights from Monroe—numbering about fifteen with ten or a dozen ladies—came to the city on a special train, to attend the service.

After the services at the church, the Knights repaired to the banquet hall in the Masonic block where dinner was served.

The services at Court Street church were marked by an excellent sermon by the pastor, Mr. Wilcox, on the resurrection. The special song service consisting of Lloyd's Easter Anthem, Easter Anthem by Mozart, and appropriate hymn music. Mrs. St. John sang "I know that my Redeemer Liveth," and it is the judgment of all who heard her, that this popular singer never sang better than in giving this splendid and world-renowned solo from the Messiah.

St. Mary's church had its altar beautifully decorated and held special Easter services.

Will Contest the Will.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., April 14.—Caleb Cooley Dickinson, a well known and eccentric man of wealth, who used to go about wrapped in a heavy cloak and wearing on his head a woman's large plush hat, with a small tuft of hair on its front, left a will at his death, directing that about $100,000 be devoted to the founding of a hospital in this city for indigent sick of Northampton, Hatfield (where he lived) and Westley. The will is to be contested on the ground of insanity. Over 100 witnesses have been summoned.

Boston, April 14.—Twenty-three delegates of the male spinners of the United States representing nine states, met here Saturday and the Fall River strike was fully discussed, the condition of the strike at the present time being ably represented by Secretary Edwards. Resolutions were adopted, calling upon all male spinners to contribute to help the strikers to agitate for the adoption of the ten-hour law.
